

WOUNDED WARRIOR REGIMENT

Fact Sheet | WWR Overview

Our Mission

The mission of the Wounded Warrior Regiment (WWR) is to provide leadership and facilitate the integration of non-medical and medical care to combat and non-combat wounded, ill, and injured (WII) Marines, sailors attached to Marine units, and their family members in order to maximize their recovery as they return to duty or transition to civilian life.

Recovery, Rehabilitation, & Reintegration

Members of the WWR will assist recovering Marines through the recovery, rehabilitation, and reintegration phases, offering guidance and expertise. The Marine Corps care model is to ensure recovering Marines return to their operational forces as quickly as their medical conditions will allow.

Assignment to the Regiment

Assignment to WWR is typically considered if the Marine:

- Has injuries that will require more than 90 days of medical treatment or rehabilitation
- Has three or more appointments of complex nature each week
- Has transportation requirements to appointments that the parent command cannot support
- Is unable to serve a function in the parent command due to their injury or illness.

Assignment to WWR is generally not considered for:

- Marines pending a Line of Duty or misconduct investigation.
- Marines with pending military or civilian legal issues.
- Marines already at the Physical Evaluation Board step of the Integrated Disability Evaluation System.

Our Programs and Locations

The WWR provides education and resources for Marines, commanders, families, and caregivers. Marines may qualify for any or all of the programs described below depending on the complexity of their condition.

Care Team

To address the varying needs of a recovering Marine, a care team of medical and non-medical support staff is assembled. This may include:

- Clinical or Medical Case managers who work hand-in-hand with the primary care manager to coordinate medical requirements
- Recovery Care Coordinator to assist Marines in developing medical and non-medical recovery goals
- Department of Veterans Affairs Federal Recovery Coordinator (when there is an expectation that support will continue past active military service)

The WWR provides the following support to all WII Marines, whether joined to a battalion or not.
